COURT FINISHES LAST OF ANCIENT LIQUOR CASES

Prosecutions Growing out of Misunderstanding at Time of Constitutional Convention Election Cleaned

Judge Reynolds began on the criminal docket in the district court today. The last of the liquor-selling cases growing out of the constitutional convention election in 1912 were disposed of when Charles Gonzales and Guillermo Gallante, Fred Harvey, Fidel Gonzalez, Charles Grande and George L. Wetzel were fined $50 and costs. At the time of the election the saloon keepers of the city, thinking the law applying to a general election was not in force, contented themselves with closing from the time the polls opened until they closed. Some forty prosecutions resulted under the convention rules that the polls should have remained shut from midnight to midnight.

Thirty cases were set for trial by Judge Reynolds yesterday afternoon, in going over the docket. Eleven cases were set for hearing before the court, the first of which is scheduled for May 12.

The following old cases were stricken from the record.

A person, etc., and Joseph Barnett; William City vs. L. and G. Gonzalez; William V. Jasper; a person, etc., and Max Chait; Camillo Lopez; Everett B. Oaks; J. W. Newman; Louis Trujillo; Jose Martin Chavez; Rafael Chavez et al (two cases); A. A. Campbell; Eugenio Ibarra and S. Garcia; Frank Vergenes and Higinio Chavez; Eduardo Chavez.

The following old cases were tried by jury:

April 13—Francisco A. Garcia, charged with leaving horse unbranded; W. W. Shout, appealed from justice court (two cases); Lou Sanchez, charged with selling liquor to Indian; a person, etc., and Cesario Gonzales, charged with selling liquor to a minor; Oliver F. Acurd; Ira Ritter, appealed from justice court; A. Parenti, charged with keeping a disorderly house; William Shout, charged with disorderly conduct; Mrs. Carmel Garcia, charged with bawdry; Rodriguez Cano, charged with disorderly conduct.

CHAVEZ IS CLEARED OF MURDER OF MERCHANT

Jury Brings in Verdict of not Guilty After Being Out Five Hours. Evidence an Circumstantial

[Special Dispatch to Evening Herald] Socorro, N. M., April 10.—Just before midnight, after being out for hours, the jury brought in the verdict of not guilty in the case against Alfredo J. Chavez, who had been on trial since Tuesday morning, charged with having murdered Casimiro Baca, an old merchant at Puerto Rico, District Attorney Tittmann and Judge Mann represented the state and Attorney Alvarado the defense.

It took a whole day to get a jury and a special panel had to be summoned when the original venire became exhausted.

There were some interesting incidents to the trial. One of these was the examination of a little Indian girl about the nature of an oath, to see if she was qualified as a witness. She said she had heard of God, did not know what became of people who did not tell the truth, but said she would tell the truth.

Judge Mecham asked her if she knew what would become of her after she died, to which she truthfully answered that she could not tell.

Another examination was conducted by means of two interpreters. She could only speak Navajo and her uncle, an Apache Indian, could not speak English, so her testimony was first translated into Spanish by the Apache and then interpreted again by E. S. Stapleton. Later, a Navajo Indian sat alongside the Apache on behalf of the state to check up on interpretations.

OLD ALBUQUERQUE MAN GARROTED AND ROBBED

Thugs Attack Vicente Flores as He is Walking Home on West Central Avenue. Suspect Arrested

Under a warrant sworn out by Vicente Flores of Old Albuquerque, Martinez was arrested on the street today by Deputy Sheriff Charles Armijo. It is alleged that on the night of April 7, when Flores was garroted and robbed Flores in front of the Porto Rico hotel on upper West Central avenue last night.

Flores was on his way home shortly before midnight when two men leaped upon him from behind and recognized him as Martinez, he alleges. While the other man choked him with his handkerchief he wore about his neck, Martinez went through his pockets according to Flores.

Flores fought his two assailants as best he could, and finally managed to wrench the handkerchief from the two footpads took to their heels. Flores said they got only a quarter in going through his clothes.

He reported the robbery to Under-sheriff Dick Lewis today. He said he recognized the second man, as well as Martinez, but didn't know his name. He gave Lewis a description of the man and the sheriff's office is searching for him.
